Course Description
Modern citizenship is a concept associated with nation-states, and at base signifies the status of belonging to a bounded political order and the rights and duties this entails. Yet economic, political, legal and technological globalization increasingly calls state boundaries into question, and borderless problems such as forced migration, climate change, epidemics, weapons of mass destruction, and terrorism require collective action on an equally global scale. In this context, global citizenship has been promoted as a sensibility and indeed as an emerging reality. This course explores the notion of “global citizenship” from the theoretical, cultural, and political perspectives and challenges students to think critically about what global citizenship can and should mean. We will explore current conceptions of global citizenship along with critiques of it, and think about ways in which it may be forged or national citizenship can be otherwise reconceived and reconstructed to respond to the urgent dilemmas of globalization. At the heart of the course will be an interdisciplinary exploration of two of the borderless problems already noted above—forced migration and climate change—through readings and discussion of novels, film, social theory, social scientific research, and policy documents from international organizations; as well as through exchange between students taking this course in different parts of the Bard network.

Learning Outcomes
• Knowledge of the institutions, organizations, agreements and processes of negotiation that structure relationships between nation states
• Knowledge of the role of non- (both sub- and supra-) national actors in shaping the current global system
• Understanding of concepts and theories of citizenship and globalization
• Awareness of contemporary global and cross-border issues and of key interpretations of their causes and impact
• Ability to frame and express arguments clearly in written and oral form
• Creation of intellectual connections with professors, students and programs of study across the Bard network

Readings
The following books are required:
- Amitav Ghosh, The Shadow Lines
- Ghassan Kanafani, Men in the Sun
- Naomi Oreskes and Erik M. Conway, The Collapse of Western Civilization
- Manfred Steger, Globalization: A Very Short Introduction
Personal copies of books should be purchased at a local bookstore or on-line. There are also 2-3 copies of each required course text in the library on the Reserve Shelf.

Further required readings can be found in the Course Reader (CR) and/or on-line at the websites listed in the syllabus.

Requirements
- Active and informed participation in all class sessions
- Two written analytical essays
- Position Paper for and participation in Climate Change Summit
- Active participation in and completion of Group Project: Introducing Global Citizens

Attendance
Attendance at all classes is expected. More than two absences (that is absences from two sessions of 90 minutes) in a semester will affect your participation grade for this course. Please consult the Student Handbook for regulations governing periods of illness or leaves of absence. In accordance with the Student Handbook, a failing grade for the course will be given if absences reach 30% of the course meetings.

Assessment
Syllabi should include all assignments required for the course, the dates on which they are due, and any stipulations concerning submission of drafts, or consultation with writing tutors/use of the Writing Center.

Writing Assignments
This course has two written analytic essay assignments. The first should be approximately 1000-1500 words (3-4 pages double spaced) and the second approximately 2000-2500 words (5-7 pages double-spaced). You will receive more detailed instruction sheets in advance of each essay.

Climate Change Summit
All students will participate in a mock Climate Change Summit. You are required to write a 500-600 word (1-2 pages double-spaced) position paper in preparation for this Summit.

Cross-Campus Group Project: Introducing Global Citizens
In small groups across the BCB and AUCA campuses, you will produce a video or podcast (5-10 minutes) introducing students in the rest of the classes to an individual or organization that you see acting as a “global citizen” in response to a contemporary borderless problem. Alongside work on the project, you will complete and turn in a project journal. Further details on the structure and requirements of this project will be communicated in a separate assignment sheet. This project will be graded pass/fail, and a failure will result in an automatic lowering of your final grade by a full letter grade.

Academic Integrity
In this course, we aim to conduct ourselves as a community of scholars, recognizing that academic study is both an intellectual and ethical enterprise. You are encouraged to build on the ideas and texts of others; that is a vital part of academic life. However, you are also obligated to document every occasion when you use another’s ideas, language, or syntax. When you use another’s ideas or language—whether through direct quotation, summary, or paraphrase—you must formally acknowledge that debt by signaling it in the MLA parenthetical format (http://www.mla.org/style). Please come to see me if you have any questions about when and how to cite. Please note that instances in which students fail to meet the expected standards of academic integrity will be dealt with under the Code of Student Conduct, Section III Academic Misconduct.

Policy on Late Submission of Papers
Essays that are up to 24 hours late will be downgraded one full grade (from B+ to C+, for example). Instructors are not obliged to accept essays that are more than 24 hours late. If I agree to accept a late essay, it must be submitted within four weeks of the deadline and cannot receive a grade of higher than C. Thereafter, you will receive a failing grade for the assignment.

Grade Breakdown
Mid-term Essay: 30%
Final Essay: 40%
Position Paper and Simulation: 10%
Participation: 20%
Group Project: n/a but a FAIL will lower your final grade by a full letter grade
