The university can be a center for and a model of cultural creation, debate, service, and political exchange among citizens of the future, one that is dominated not by commerce and a narrow definition of utility but by a love of learning.

—Leon Botstein, President of Bard College, from Jefferson’s Children

B.A. PROGRAM

A liberal arts education offers students both breadth and depth of learning. The Bachelor of Arts program at Bard College Berlin combines interdisciplinary study across the humanities, social sciences, and history of science with specialization in a chosen academic field. Flexible course selection allows students to explore different areas of study according to their interests and across academic boundaries, while the progression of the program towards independent research in the fourth year allows students to gain expertise in one discipline.

The components of the Bard College Berlin curriculum:
- Core Curriculum
- Major
- German Language
- Electives
- Study Abroad / Internship (optional)
- Senior Thesis

Exposure to new fields, thinking across academic disciplines

The core curriculum and electives are the main sources of breadth in the BCB program. Throughout their studies, all B.A. students follow a common curriculum in intellectual, cultural, and political history. Electives allow students to explore new areas of study and enrich their major with a variety of academic and artistic experiences. All students have an academic advisor, who helps them build a tailored and cohesive selection of courses over four years.

Developing expertise in an individual area of study

The main sources of depth in the B.A. program are the selection of a major and the Senior Thesis. Students declare their major in the fourth semester after completing foundational courses in one or several areas of interest. The B.A. program then progresses towards independent research closely supervised by a faculty member and guided by participation in a Research Colloquium.

The majors offered at Bard College Berlin are:
- Art and Aesthetics
- Economics
- Ethics and Politics
- Literature and Rhetoric
- Politics

Practical experience, professional skills

All degree-seeking students learn German to at least an intermediate level during their studies. This enables them to intern in Berlin, work off-campus, and access the German and European job markets and graduate programs after graduation. Additionally, the internship course allows students to gain work experience in fields related to their studies. The B.A. program prepares students for graduate study and careers in the public, private, and nonprofit sectors, in domains such as international relations, public policy, journalism, and the arts.

“In the liberal arts, classes that seem to belong to one category often contain many different disciplines. For example, a class that technically fulfills a Politics requirement, actually explores economics, sociology, urban studies, and how these disciplines connect. I think I’m very good at making these connections now.”

—Elena Gagovska, B.A. Class of 2019
