Bard College Berlin
A LIBERAL ARTS UNIVERSITY

<https://berlin.bard.edu>

The university can be a center for and a model of cultural creation, debate, service, and political exchange among citizens of the future, one that is dominated not by commerce and a narrow definition of utility but by a love of learning.

—Leon Botstein, President of Bard College, from Jefferson's Children

B.A. PROGRAM

A liberal arts education offers students both breadth and depth of learning. The Bachelor of Arts program at Bard College Berlin combines interdisciplinary study across the humanities, social sciences, and history of science with specialization in a chosen academic field. Flexible course selection allows students to explore different areas of study according to their interests and across academic boundaries, while the progression of the program towards independent research in the fourth year allows students to gain expertise in one discipline.

The components of the Bard College Berlin curriculum:

- Core Curriculum
- Major
- German Language
- Electives
- Study Abroad / Internship (optional)
- Senior Thesis

Exposure to new fields, thinking across academic disciplines

The core curriculum and electives are the main sources of breadth in the BCB program. Throughout their studies, all B.A. students follow a common curriculum in intellectual, cultural, and political history. Electives allow students to explore new areas of study and enrich their major with a variety of academic and artistic experiences. All students have an academic advisor, who helps them build a tailored and cohesive selection of courses over four years.

Developing expertise in an individual area of study

The main sources of depth in the B.A. program are the selection of a major and the Senior Thesis. Students declare their major in the fourth semester after completing foundational courses in one or several areas of interest. The B.A. program then progresses towards independent research closely supervised by a faculty member and guided by participation in a Research Colloquium.

The majors offered at Bard College Berlin are:

- Art and Aesthetics
- Economics
- Ethics and Politics
- Literature and Rhetoric
- Politics

Practical experience, professional skills

All degree-seeking students learn German to at least an intermediate level during their studies. This enables them to intern in Berlin, work off-campus, and access the German and European job markets and graduate programs after graduation. Additionally, the internship course allows students to gain work experience in fields related to their studies. The B.A. program prepares students for graduate study and careers in the public, private, and nonprofit sectors, in domains such as international relations, public policy, journalism, and the arts.

Class discussion in a Politics seminar led by Jeffrey Champlin

“In the liberal arts, classes that seem to belong to one category often contain many different disciplines. For example, a class that technically fulfills a Politics requirement, actually explores economics, sociology, urban studies, and how these disciplines connect. I think I’m very good at making these connections now.”

—Elena Gagovska, B.A. Class of 2019

CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

Bard College Berlin supports student involvement with public life outside the classroom to promote commitment to active citizenship and to contribute to an engaged university. Through student-led projects, volunteer work, skill development workshops, or engagement fellowships, BCB students actively work for positive social change in local communities or engage with relevant global questions. Students cooperate across the Open Societies University Network (OSUN) by participating in international conferences and training sessions, sharing resources, or leading projects that span several campuses around the globe.

Past and ongoing student-led projects include:

- Baynatna: The Arabic Library in Berlin (first exclusively Arabic library in Berlin)
- Homesick (documentary on Iraqi asylum seekers living in Germany)
- Lingo 101 (student-taught language courses in four languages)
- Open Campus Against Closed Borders (opening the university community to migrants and asylum seekers in the area; the initiative evolved into the DAAD-funded program Campus Conversations)
- Pankow Theater Company (weekly theater workshops in English for German high school students)
- BCB Goes Green (promoting sustainable and environmentally-friendly practices and policies on campus)

Faculty and students interact in an installation at an on-campus exhibition of the studio arts classes

This practical experience is guided by an academic course. In addition, the Bard Globalization and International Affairs Program affords students the opportunity to intern full-time in New York City while taking evening classes.

FINANCIAL AID

Bard College Berlin strives to guarantee that admitted students from diverse socioeconomic backgrounds are able to attend our institution. In addition to our merit- and need-based scholarships, we offer need-based financial aid to successful applicants. All incoming students are eligible to apply regardless of nationality. US citizens and permanent residents who are eligible for federal funding through FAFSA can use those grants and loans to fund their studies at BCB. Applying for financial aid is easy: after submitting an application for admission, applicants fill out the Financial Statement form and submit it to the Financial Aid Office along with supporting documents.

For further information on financial aid and scholarships please visit: <https://berlin.bard.edu/admissions/finances/financial-aid/>
