S0104 Methods in Social and Historical Studies

Seminar Leader: Ayşe Çavdar Email: a.cavdar@berlin.bard.edu Office Hours: by appointment

Course Description

Ethnography is a research method consisting of observation techniques to produce knowledge about societies and cultures. It provides a vast space for the researcher to gather observation and experience in the field—however, the spaciousness of the field of experience and proximity to the observed cause countless accidents. As a result, transforming ethnographic observation into academic knowledge based on the researcher's subjective experience also necessitates a series of reflections and self-reflection. In this course, we will get to know ethnography by discussing several ethnographers' experiences instead of studying ethnography as a method from above. This reverse view will provide the opportunity for students who are curious and prone to field studies to anticipate the problems they may encounter. Therefore, the course aims to get familiar with ethnography. In this way, students will become familiar with this method and have the experience to read the social science literature based on ethnographic research.

Requirements

Academic Integrity

Bard College Berlin maintains the highest standards of academic integrity and expects students to adhere to these standards at all times. Instances in which students fail to meet the expected standards of academic integrity will be dealt with under the Code of Student Conduct, Section 14.3 (Academic Misconduct) in the Student Handbook.

Attendance

Attendance at all classes is a crucial part of the education offered by Bard College Berlin. To account for minor circumstances, two absences from twice-per-week courses or the equivalent (e.g. one absence from a once-per-week course) should not affect the participation grade or require documentation.

Bard College Berlin does not offer credit for any course in which a student has missed more than 30% of classes, regardless of the reasons for the absences. The full Bard College Berlin attendance policy can be found in the Student Handbook, Section 2.8.

SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS FOR SPRING 2022: Some students may need to begin the semester remotely due to travel restrictions caused by the pandemic. In addition, all students and instructors must refrain from in-person attendance if they are feeling ill. Instructors should make efforts to offer alternatives to in-person attendance where needed, including remote participation or asynchronous options.

Assessment

The course assessment consists of basically attendance, participation, and engagement in the discussions and activities. See also "Grade Breakdown."

Assignments

Students will keep a diary throughout the semester. We will talk about the subjects of the diaries and what to do with them in the class. Students will write a midterm (2000-2500 words, deadline: 18 March 2022) and a final essay (3000-3500 words, deadline: 13 May 2022) on their chosen topics.

Policy on Late Submission of Papers

Essays that are up to 24 hours late can be downgraded up to one full grade (from B+ to C+, for example). Instructors are not obliged to accept essays that are more than 24 hours late. Where an instructor agrees to accept a late essay, it must be submitted within four weeks of the deadline. Thereafter, the student will receive a failing grade for the assignment. Grades and comments will be returned to students in a timely fashion. Students are also entitled to make an appointment to discuss essay assignments and feedback during instructors' office hours.

Students receive mid- and end-of-semester grades for their seminar work. Students are entitled to make an appointment with an instructor to discuss seminar participation, or may be asked to meet with the instructor at any stage in the semester regarding class progress.
