Course Description

This foundational painting course provides a comprehensive exploration of painting materials, techniques, and key concepts. The curriculum covers a range of subjects, including color theory, mastercopy techniques, still life, portraiture, abstraction, and the integration of photography into the painting process. Students will work with water-based paints, mastering canvas stretching, surface preparation, and application methods encompassing both traditional and experimental approaches. Practical demonstrations will help understand the nuances of various paints, guiding students in color mixing, hue, value, and the dynamic interplay of warm and cool temperatures. The curriculum includes construction of compositions, perspectival space, surface texture, and the optical effects of shadow and light. Engaging assignments encourage students to develop a sense of their own work. Readings, discussions, and slide presentations explore themes in art history and contemporary painting, offering a broad perspective on artistic evolution. The course gives attention to group and individual guidance and limiting class size ensures ample studio space and extended interaction with the professor. Evaluations and group critiques occur at midterm and term-end, culminating in an "Open Studios" exhibition showcasing student artworks. This course emphasizes studio work and demands a substantial time commitment outside of class sessions.

Assessment

Students receive mid- and end-of-semester grades for their seminar work.

Students are assessed on their willingness to experiment, their contributions exchanging feed-back during critiques, and their ability to work effectively throughout the semester. Grading will reflect the ambition, time-investment, and overall quality of the finished artworks. This assessment will also include the student's ability to adequately manage their time for working and clean-up of materials and spaces used at BCB.
70% Work (meaning all artworks made for class, presented for critiques, and assignments)
30% Attendance, participation in discussions, and professionalism

Assignments are due at the beginning of the class session. Detailed information about assignments and projects will be given in class. Assignments and the dates described in this syllabus are subject to change by the instructor. Students will be notified of any changes to the syllabus in class and via email. Students must regularly check their Bard email accounts. Students are encouraged to make an appointment with the instructor during office hours to discuss assignments and seminar participation, or may be asked to meet with the instructor at any stage in the semester regarding class progress.

IMPORTANT– Please be aware that basic art materials will be provided, though some materials may need to be purchased directly by each student at their own expense, depending on individual project goals.

Policy on Late Submission of Artworks / Presentations

Assignments (artworks, essays, performances, oral presentations) that are up to 24 hours late will be downgraded one full grade (Example: B+ becomes C+). The Professor is not obliged to accept assignments that are more than 24 hours late. Where a professor agrees to accept a late assignment, it should be submitted by the new deadline agreed upon by both parties. Thereafter, the student will receive a failing grade for the assignment. Grades and comments will be returned to students in a timely fashion. Students may make an appointment to discuss assignments and feedback during instructors' office hours.

Students receive mid- and end-of-semester grades for their seminar work. Students are entitled to make an appointment with an instructor to discuss seminar participation, or may be asked to meet with the instructor at any stage in the semester regarding class progress.
